Issue 118 - August 2023

- General updates [#tab_1da81]
- Compliance updates [#tab_1da82]

Welcome to the latest issue of SRA Update. In the news world, August is known as the silly season. There has been nothing silly about the news of some solicitor firms featured in an undercover operation recently. We have acted quickly to protect the interests of the public in this matter, and maintain confidence in the profession, where the vast majority of firms provide quality services and uphold the highest of standards. Also this month, find out about our operational performance during the last business year, look at what the profession has done to keep its skills and knowledge up to date, and find out more about the technological advances being made in the delivery of legal services.

Help at hand on immigration matters

[\[https://jobs.sra.org.uk/solicitors/guidance/immigration-work-guidance/\]](https://jobs.sra.org.uk/solicitors/guidance/immigration-work-guidance/)

The role of solicitors in providing immigration services has attracted high profile political and media attention in recent weeks. We produced guidance on this area last year. The guidance looks at issues such as discussing the strengths and weaknesses of the client's case with them, clearly outlining their options, preparing properly for online hearings, and making it easier for clients to feedback or complain.

Verifying your mySRA account [<https://jobs.sra.org.uk/mysra/updates/verifying-mysra-account/>]

To make your mySRA account more secure, we have introduced an additional verification step. Next time you log in, if you have not already done it, you will need to register a phone number. You will then need to have this phone with you whenever you log in in the future, so that we can send you a code by SMS text or call you to verify your identity.

Risk Outlook - remaining compliant in testing times [<https://jobs.sra.org.uk/sra/research-publications/regulatory-risk-economic-uncertainty/>]

Our latest Risk Outlook report looks at the problems facing law firms and their clients in the current economic downturn. It highlights a number of areas of concern that could lead to the profession failing to deliver the high standards expected. For example, long-standing clients could now be classified as vulnerable because of the cost-of-living crisis. Find out if you are at risk by reading the report.
